

The Plus Used Truck Module is much more complex on many levels. It has all the easy-to-use and convenient features of the Basic Used Truck Module, but also includes additional features such as: a searchable database for your customers, the quick-search function for administrators and the online inquiry form for your customers.

ability to enter additional information so the user may search by the many different features of each truck entered in by the module administrator at the time of listing. The user will then be presented search results that match their query so they have a smaller number of units to sift through, thus saving them time, energy and frustration. The Plus Used Truck Module is ideal for dealerships with a larger number of used trucks.

The user interface makes it easy enough for anyone in the company to maintain.

The first of these additions is the ability for customers to search and filter listings by tire type, fuel or power system, mast, year, manufacturer, hours, capacity and any other major category ordered at the time of coding installation.

Finally, a built-in online form is included that will e-mail the interest for a unit without requiring any e-mail software

The search feature lets your customers find what they're looking for easily.

Rather than displaying a complete list of trucks available on a single page for customers to search manually through, the Plus Used Truck Module displays a page with drop downs and the

from the user. The e-mail includes the serial and stock number to make the entire process easier on the sales person receiving the e-mail request for additional information. The form allows for better tracking by management and provides accessibility for future use and module development.
